PALs: Play At Lunchtime Leaders

A program assisting students to have fun safely at lunch with peer support

PALs is designed to assist students in Junior Primary to engage with a range of different play activities with the support of a student leader from Years 3 to 6. The 78 students, who were selected this year, wrote some fantastic applications explaining why they wanted to be PALs mentors and the skills they would bring to the role. They then undertook a half day training session to prepare for the role.

PALs wear bright coloured vests to identify themselves in the yard. The PALs program provides leadership opportunities to older students and reduces bullying behaviours amongst younger children. With the mentors support, students learn how to play games and undertake lunchtime activities in a cooperative and kind manner.

The ability to successfully play with others is a skill, and conflicts are reduced when students are explicitly taught to play games, with clear rules, and to resolve conflicts with the support of older students.

PALs leaders introduce students to a range of games. The leaders are trained in organising up to 30 different games. Some involve just simple movements while others require the use of equipment. The leaders carry game cards that explain the rules and procedures for each activity.

In the early years, conflicts between students can often arise when children lack the social development to negotiate joining play groups, so engaging in games with the support of an older child is a great way to enhance their skills.

The program encourages:

- A fun inclusive environment where everyone is valued and their needs are met
- Safe play and emotional health and wellbeing
- Students learn new activities that are stimulating, challenging and matched to their ability
- Levels and increase their physical activity
- A positive school ethos and social cohesion as it builds students confidence and self-esteem.
