PALs Make Lunchtimes Better

PALs, the 'PLAY at LUNCH TIME' support program began last week. PAL's is designed to assist students in Junior Primary to engage with a range of different play activities with the support of a student leader from Years 4 or 5. 21 students from Years 4 & 5 wrote some fantastic applications explaining why they wanted to be PAL's mentors and what skills they would bring to the role, they then undertook 1/2 a day of training.

PALs wear brightly coloured vests to identify themselves. A PAL's program provides leadership opportunities to older students and reduces bullying behaviours amongst younger children, with the mentors support, they learn how to play games and undertake lunch time activities in a cooperative manner.

The ability to successfully play with others is a skill, and conflicts are reduced when students are explicitly taught to play games, with clear rules, and resolve conflicts with the support of older students.

PAL leaders introduce students to a range of games. The leaders are trained in organising up to 30 different games. Some involve just simple movements while others require the use of equipment. The leaders carry game cards that explain the rules and procedures for each activity.

In the early years, conflicts between students can often arise when children lack the social development to negotiate joining play groups and so engaging in games with the support of an older child is a great way to enhance their skills.

The program encourages:

- A fun inclusive environment where everyone is valued and their needs are met
- Safe play and emotional health and wellbeing
- Students to learn new activities that are stimulating, challenging, matched to their ability levels and increase their physical activity
- A positive school ethos and social cohesion as it builds students confidence and self-esteem.

If your child is unwell they should be at home.

The risk of COVID has not gone away and when students have coughs and colds they need to stay away from school and see the doctor. Lately many students are being sent to school unwell and we are having to ring the parent early in the morning to have them picked up. Please keep your children home if they are unwell.

Volunteer RAN Training Sessions

We are offering online sessions for RAN Training.

If you would like to help out in your child's classroom with transport, camps, in the library or canteen etc. you need to have a child related police clearance (working with children check for volunteers) and be RAN trained. Working With Children Check forms are available from the front office. This is a Department for Education requirement.

It is mandatory to attend a training session as part of becoming a volunteer.

You only ever need to attend once unless there is a change to the course, which you will then be notified about.

RAN stands for Responding to Abuse and Neglect. The RAN training for volunteers induction session outlines for volunteers their child protection responsibilities and provides guidelines on protective practices. You will receive a RAN Certificate after completing this training session.

These sessions are run each term and are advertised in the newsletter, Google Currents and Skoolbag.

If you are interested please phone the office on 8264 8099 or text us on 0447 467152 and we will send you the link to complete this course. Online this course runs for approx. 1 hour - 1.5 hours. Once completed please email your certificate to dl.1540.info@schools.sa.edu.au.

National Reconciliation Week

By Gargee VYAS Room 9
Year 6 Student and SRC Executive

Introduction

Every year Reconciliation Week is on the 27th of May to the 3rd of June. This year, the theme is 'more than a word'. Reconciliation Week is about respecting Aboriginal people and their cultures. As most people know, the Aboriginal peoples were the first people of Australia. Non-indigenous people treated them wrongly for decades. Reconciliation Week is about reconciling with these people. Though we've come a lot further, we still need to keep going. The week falls between two significant milestones in reconciliation, the 1967 referendum and the High Court Mabo decision. We all need to remember not to judge people by their race, skin culture or background.

Ways to celebrate Reconciliation week

A great way to celebrate is to participate in activities that the school holds. Activities such as colouring, making chatterboxes and some fun outdoor activities are conducted by our school. But what are some out of school ways? We can also celebrate by recognizing and doing aboriginal dot painting.

The Referendum in Mabo decision

On May 27, 1967 Australians voted in favour of changes to our constitution, involving indigenous rights to improve the services available for them. The change was focused on two sections of the constitution that discriminated against Aborigines. About 90.77% Australian citizens voted "yes" to change. This came to be known as the 1967 referendum. On the 3rd of June 1992, the High Court of Australia recognised a group of Torres Strait Islanders led by Eddie Mabo, held ownership of Murray Island (mer). The court acknowledged the traditional rights of the Merian people to their land and native title existed for all indigenous people. This acknowledgement was known as the 'Mabo decision'.

Facts about Reconciliation week

- Reconciliation Week started as 'The Week of Prayer For Reconciliation' back in 1993
- In 1996 the council for Aboriginal Reconciliation launched 'Reconciliation Week'
- National Reconciliation Week is organised by Reconciliation Australia, a not-for-profit organisation established in 2000

Parents should not use schools or preschools for personal contact with child.

It is not appropriate for a parent to call a school or preschool to speak to their child. It's also not appropriate for a parent to visit a school or preschool to spend time with their child during school hours.

This applies whether the family is separated and regardless of whether there are family court orders in place.

Situations where personal contact is ok.

Passing on information in an emergency, collecting a child for an appointment, attending special events, educational meetings, assembly, sports day and similar school events, volunteering or working at the school or preschool.

All visitors on school grounds must sign in and QR code at the front office, and they will be issued with a visitor/volunteer badge, and then sign back out when they leave.

Room 11 and 12 – Tinkercad

This Term, Room 11 and 12 have been working with Mr Whitehead for Digital Technologies. We have been using the website Tinkercad.com to create bag tags that are now being printed on the 3D printer in the Computer Room.

We had to use our knowledge of 3D objects and learn to manipulate shapes on the screen. It was tricky work, but we are so proud of our end products. We are spray painting our designs and then they will be ready to go on our school bags.

Thank you, Mr Whitehead and Scott, for making our designs come to life.
